ATTRACTING ABUNDANCE

Tony had often been intrigued during his journey and adventure with his own and other people's desire for abundance in its many forms. He had come across many who valued money before anything else and had to admit that during his earlier life he had held similar values. Indeed, one of his favourite quotes had been:

'Money is not the most important thing in life, but it's right up there with oxygen'.

Tony was curious as to how Andrew had avoided attachment to the vast wealth he had acquired. His second philosophy had been: ‘He who dies rich dies disgraced’. Consequently he set himself the task of disposing of his fortune for the betterment of mankind. He managed this by investing $350,000,000 in the many trusts he set up between 1901 and 1919.

Andrew’s perspective on abundance was as usual, both simple and multidimensional. He was gifted with the ability to focus on others whilst loving what he did. As you now know, these attract an especially empowering form of energy. That which Andrew now shared highlighted his deep wisdom and knowledge.

This revelation was truly enlightening. The final lesson required to attract abundance is an understanding of what ‘enough’ looks like. I learned that, with regard to abundance, there are six key areas of wisdom that we need to be aware of, and practise, if we are to attract abundance. These are, purpose, energy, finance, inspiration, imagination and experience.

‘ABUNDANCE IS ATTRACTED IN MANY FORMS. SIX OF THE BEST ARE:
PURPOSE, ENERGY, FINANCE,
INSPIRATION, IMAGINATION AND EXPERIENCE’.

It is important at this stage to make a written record of any new thoughts feelings and visualisations that have resulted from your reading of this chapter. Establish why you want to make this deliberate change, and if you still think it will be worth the effort, you will be ready to start practising the ‘how’, or practical experiential application of it during the next seven days, in your everyday situations, both personal and professional.
